For the first time since Reconstruction more than 100 years before, enough black people (African-Americans) were registered voters...organized enough to run, even elect, their own candidates for mayors of their towns.

Mayoral candidates Saul Sutton of Tchula and Warren Booker of Lexington spoke along with many state and other leaders:

- MFDP (Mississippi FDP) vice chair Fannie Lou Hamer, the best-known, most well-respected FDP leader both in and outside the state
- MFDP state chair Lawrence Guyot
- State NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) president Aaron Henry
- Robert G. Clark, Holmes's FDP-elected state representative, the first and only black to win state office in the historic 1967 elections

FANNIE LOU HAMER—spirited singer, astute political analyst, moving speaker—used her powerful face...body...voice to rally the hundreds.
For the first time in anyone’s memory blacks called and ran a political meeting . . . and held it in the Courthouse!
