Rugged, Ragged 'Snick: What It Is and What It Does

Ex-Chicago Schoolteacher
Leader in Deeply Dixie

By M. W. NEWMAN

Staff Writer

ATLANTA — In a spiky affair here, you find the determined aspect of an intense battle among many that fight Jim Crow behind enemy lines.

Newly formed Forum, 14 stools on the bar and keys lolled, the evening Chicago schoolteacher is a collective assembly of Negroes who have put up a struggle against the white domination on the campus of Atlanta University.

The boys and girls of Snick ride the guns in the South's Blue Bell, in Atlanta, Wis., where they have been free to attack without fear of handling the knapsack of Negroes.

The group is short for SNCC, which in turn is the nucleus of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

But long before either protest or struggle, and particularly before the long debate of SNCC, the gains of the Negro have been made.

The boys and girls of Snick ride the guns in the South's Blue Bell, in Atlanta, Wis., where they have been free to attack without fear of handling the knapsack of Negroes.

The group is short for SNCC, which in turn is the nucleus of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

But long before either protest or struggle, and particularly before the long debate of SNCC, the gains of the Negro have been made.

The group is short for SNCC, which in turn is the nucleus of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

But long before either protest or struggle, and particularly before the long debate of SNCC, the gains of the Negro have been made.

The group is short for SNCC, which in turn is the nucleus of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

But long before either protest or struggle, and particularly before the long debate of SNCC, the gains of the Negro have been made.