Dear Sir:

I am trying to gather information on the public schools in Atlanta.

Information on the number of pupils and the number attending interfrated school is readily available from the Board of Education, but other facts are not.

I am specifically interested in securing data on:

n teacher per pupil comparisons in white and Negro schools;
the number of classrooms per pupil in white and Negro schools;

funds expended by state and local government in white and Negro schools;

teacher preparation in white and Negro schools;

post-high school achievement of white and Negro high school graduates;

dropouts in white and Negro schools; and data on several other topics;

Of course, I realize that you may not have all or any of this material, but in any case, I hope you can supply me with some of it or refer me to another source.

Incidentally, I would be interested in reprinting some of the charts and maps that appear in Southern School News IN our newspaper, the Studnet Voice.

May we do so (giving credit, of course) or must we seek permission for specific reprints, or would reprinting these charts and/or maps be against your policy.

Please advise us.

Sincerely,

Horace Julian Bond
