Revolutionary Brothers and Sisters:

Recent revolutionary acts by our brothers and sisters who are packed in Negro brainwashing factories (Howard, Fisk, Texas Southern, Tennessee State, South Carolina State, Lincoln University (Pa.) and those to follow this writing demonstrate clearly that black students are fed up with racist America and truly understand that "America is the Black Man's Battleground."

We, the members of the Black Power Committee (BPC) applaud the awakening of our brothers and sisters across the nation and support the continuation of the fight for "self determination."

It is crystal clear that now is the time for black revolutionists to emerge and become one. The unification of the scattered sheep (Miss., Pa., Ala., Calif., etc.), the unification of our various black revolutionary students, and the unification of our people are the basic guarantees of triumph in our just struggle for self-determination.

Realizing that black unity is the number 1 in the minds of racist America, we the members of the Black Power Committee call for a Black People Conference to be held the weekend of May 19-21 in Washington, D.C. to plot a course of action which will lead towards Black liberation and not merely "Negro demonstrations." Registration is at 5:00-7:00 p.m., at The Burning Bush, a Howard University coffee house located at Georgia Avenue and Euclid Street.

The theme of the conference will be: "America: the Black Man's Battleground" and how we will move toward Black liberation--unity.

We call on black brothers and sisters across the country to mobilize their forces and converge on the District of Columbia, May 19, 20 and 21.

Yours for black power,
The Black Power Committee
