

CARPENTERS FOR CHRISTMAS

As you are probably aware, the churches have played a crucial role in the struggle for freedom in Mississippi, both in providing facilities for community activities and in their moral condemnation of segregation.

This Christmas Christians of all denominations will be able to worship in their own churches. Nearly forty churches in Mississippi have been destroyed by bombings or fire because of their association with the struggle for racial justice in America. You can enable people in Mississippi to worship in their own churches for Christmas.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!

The Oberlin Action for Civil Rights* in cooperation with the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO) in Mississippi is sponsoring a project to rebuild one or two churches, depending upon your financial support and the number of people who are willing to join us for this project. We are asking you to raise funds in support of this undertaking and, if possible, put us in contact with one or two people who have skills in this area and would be willing to devote time during Christmas vacation to help in this effort.

We are at present planning to leave Oberlin on December 19 and work through January 2. If you are interested in having student speakers talk to assist you in your fund raising efforts, please contact:
