Burton told us that someone was going to dynamite the Freedom House and that some fellows had gone down to Brookhaven to get some. Funny Boy came back yesterday and said, you don't have anything to worry about. Burton came back yesterday, for the fifth time, he said he wouldn't be coming back any more, because his white friends were putting presur on him. He is a kind of guy who just doesn't give a damn about all these social issues, just got out of the Pen.

At 7:30 a group of Negroes, well-dressed, decided to test the public accommodations provisions of the civil rights bill. There were 7 in the group. They went to the Burger Chef drive-in on Cook and Theresa Streets. The whites asked "Where are you going?" Whites said "To get a hamburger." Whites said, "You'd better not go in." Negroes tried to get in. "Whites asked "Do you want to fight?" Negroes left. Negroes came back about 8 pm when 12 whites met them. Some kind of exchange occurred. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

1 a.m. Tuesday

Moss Point, Miss. -- Jessie Mae Stalworth, 19, a Moss Point Negro woman, was shot twice here tonight while attending a voter registration rally at the Knights of Pythias Hall.

She was taken to Singing River Hospital in Pascagoula, where officials told Uninhibited Press International her condition was "good." She was among 300 who heard a talk by Lawrence Guyot, SNCC project director for the 5th Gym.

Witnesses said shots were fired from a passing car, believed to be a late model green Comet, around 9:45 p.m. Four white youths were reported inside the car.

Two of the shots struck Miss Stalworth as she stood by a window singing "We Shall Overcome." Sheriff's deputies had left the meeting five minutes before the shooting.

Knights of Pythias Hall

A second burst of shots was fired later, but no one was injured.

Guyot and another SNCC worker who went to the hospital to check Miss Stalworth's condition, were told to leave by local police because partial law had been declared.

Later in the evening, two Negro cars pursued the vehicle they believed had been involved in the shooting from Magnolia Street to a Texaco Station on Highway 63. The driver of the first car got out, found a shotgun aimed toward him by the whites, turned back toward his car, and discovered the police were ready to haul it away. He was put in a state highway patrol car, driven to the Pascagoula jail, and charged with attempted assault and using profane language.

Two passengers in the second pursuit car, Lamar Turnipseed and E.J. Hudson, were held at the same jail on concealed weapons charges. Police made no effort to search the white car, contending it was not involved in the shooting.

The Knights of Pythias Hall was firebombed June 23. Damage was slight.
