

Tuesday night

Dear Wattsed,

Things look bleak for the three who have vanished. They found their burned car today, and the wife of one of the missing left here to take part in the search. The sorrow of this departure caused an intense, spontaneous parade on the campus, and there are many red eyes.

Perhaps you might circulate the enclosed petition. Allen Dulles is not enough.

I have been assigned to a relatively safe area, which I quite frankly asked for, in Laurel, Miss. with two girls, one of each color who are college juniors. We will have to recruit our own students and arrange facilities for the school, through the NAACP which is strong in the area.

It seems hard to believe that these students are actually going to Mississippi but they are, even though things are not as gay here as they were on Sunday.

To bed.

Tom
