Miss. Volunteers Parents Committee

Gentlemen:

A few days ago, I sent you a short piece written by my daughter, Peggy Reimann, for possible inclusion in your book of volunteers' writings. The enclosed was written by <sup>Gloria</sup> a student of mine at the above college. I thought you might be interested in the following "human interest" information.

Peggy and Gloria met and became friends while both were attending the orientation sessions at Oxford, Ohio. Gloria went on to Greenwood. Peggy went, not to Mississippi, but to southwest Georgia, where a SNCC project was underway, and while in Americus for several weeks, lodged with Gloria's family in Americus, where she was coddled and loved like a daughter. After the summer, Gloria came back to Spelman College, where I am a new member of the history department, and, as a gesture of loyalty toward her friend, signed up for one of my courses. She is a delight to me. (Her mother and I, of course, are in correspondence.)

Yours for freedom,

Miriam Wasserman
