On Saturday night, January 5, 1964, I was working in my place of business. This was about 8:30 p.m. when a neighborhood child ran into the shop and asked whether I had something burning outside the shop. I said, "No." and then the child said in a tone of excitement, "Well, something is burning." Then, I went to the do r and saw an approximately 3x5 foot cross clothes with rags and some fluid, blazing.

I heard in the community that six crosses have been burned on that same night in the same neighborhood and about fourteen inthe county.
